SEEING LIKE JESUS

The difference between Jesus and the rest of us may be observed most clearly in what he was able to see. This truth is illustrated in the last few verses of Matthew 9, where the Lord's tour through the towns and villages of Galilee is summarized.

Jesus saw the crowds, the people who met him in every place. He saw their physical condition. They had just about every kind of weakness and affliction. He saw their emotional condition. They were distressed. They were fainting, weary and discouraged. He saw their moral and spiritual condition. They were scattered — as lost and hopeless as sheep without a shepherd.

Think of how an ordinary fellow might have felt when confronted with such a sight. At the least, one might have felt overwhelmed by the problems of the people, almost to the point of despair. Or, a person might have thought it was their own fault, that they should have chosen a better course for their lives. Some might even have concluded that God was doing all this to them, that they had made Him angry and were paying for it.

Jesus, however, saw through eyes of compassion. He saw a harvest! His first comment to his disciples was, "The harvest indeed is plenteous ..." What a surprising statement that is! We might have expected, "I've never seen so many problems. It's depressing!" We usually evaluate the harvest potential by great successes achieved, but he measured by the need he saw. He saw people in distress and thought of the waiting harvest.

Whether we see the need for laborers, whether we will pray earnestly for the Lord of harvest to send out laborers, whether we will be those laborers — it all depends on whether we can still see like Jesus. When we look at the world around us, do we see a great harvest or do we merely see big problems?

OLD SONGS STILL HAVE CURRENT MESSAGES

By Dennis R. Smith

We must not forget the words of the Apostle Paul in connection with the importance of singing. Listen to this: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord" (Col. 3:16). With that in mind let me now take you to the opening words of the old song, Hold to God's Unchanging Hand: "Time is filled with swift transition" Not only do we want to focus on the way time changes, but most assuredly the word "swift." It is for sure that time has a way of changing many things, but we must keep in mind that God and His word never change (Mal. 3:6; Matt. 24:35). While we cannot stop time from swiftly passing on, neither can we prevent radical changes which time brings. Our greatest challenge as Christians is to be so anchored in the truth of God's word that we recognize changes in lifestyles, methods and procedures which violate the eternal plan of God. Time, itself, is precious with the Lord. Consider this: "See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, Redeeming the time (taking advantage of every opportunity NIV), because the days are evil (Eph. 5:15-16). What we do with our time - especially our spare time - might well determine whether we will be accepted by our Lord in the Judgment. That being said, "Build your hopes on things eternal - Hold to God's Unchanging Hand!"
